

Association of the Universities, Research & Development Institutes, and the Central University Libraries in Romania
"Anelis Plus"

To whom it may concern

The Association of the Universities, Research & Development Institutes, and the Central University Libraries in Romania "Anelis Plus" includes the most important universities, research institutes and university libraries in Romania.

It represents the information and documentation interests of its 104 members, promoting knowledge and supporting implementation of educational and research policies, through the acquisition of electronic information resources for education and scientific research, in order to meet the users' growing information and documentation needs. Its activity is supported by the National Authority for Scientific Research and Innovation (<http://newwww.research.ro/>).

The Association has won a new project (POC competition code - A.1 A.1.1.2-I-2016 Action 1.1.2 - Development of nationally coordinated networks of R&D centers connected to European and international relevant networks and providing access to scientific publications and European and international databases, Project type: Ensuring researchers' access to scientific publications and European and international databases).

On behalf of the members of the Association's Board I hereby inform you that we intend to acquire electronic scientific info-documentary resources and these elements have been considered in the 2017 budget. This acquisition shall follow the standard process regulated by the national legislation, which requires a tender; such tender shall be organized solely following the signing of the agreement for financing the Association's Project and of the subsidiary agreements with its members.

To conclude, the cooperation with our partner publishers during the forthcoming five years consists of access services (including perpetual access) and, in some cases, acquisition of archives and e-books. As the procedure for contracting the subscriptions and purchases for 2017 will still take some time, we are kindly asking you to
